

Introduction, Consent & Filter Questions

We are a team of researchers from University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and the University of Florida studying the travel behavior and travel choices of different generations. The goal of the follow survey is to understand the travel needs of the future. To understand how you travel, we will ask about where you live and work, and how you use smartphone apps for transportation, and your experience using ridesharing (carshare, bikeshare, etc) and ride hailing (Lyft, Uber, etc) services. This project is funded by the US Department of Transportation for research of the Southeastern US region.

You will need to provide your consent to participate before beginning this survey. On the next page, read the consent form completely and check "consent" at the bottom, if you agree.

CONSENT FORM FOR TRAVEL BEHAVIOR STUDY

What are some general things you should know about research studies? You are being asked to take part in a research study. To join the study is voluntary. You may choose not to participate, or you may withdraw your consent to be in the study, for any reason, without penalty. Details about this study are discussed below. It is important that you understand this information so that you can make an informed choice about being in this research study.

What is the purpose of this study? The purpose of this research study is to collect data about how Millennials travel and use of social media in their daily lives, particularly in North Carolina and Florida

How many people will take part in this study? If you decide to be in this study, you will be one of approximately 1200 people in this research study.

What will happen if you take part in the study? Your part in this study will last approximately 15-20 minutes. During this study, you will complete an online questionnaire. The questionnaire will ask you describe how you commute to work or school, types of social media apps you use or are familiar with and your housing situation.

What are the possible benefits from being in this study? Research is designed to benefit society gaining new knowledge. You may not benefit personally from being in this research study.

What are the possible risks or discomforts involved from being in this study? We anticipate few risks in this study.

How will your privacy be protected? All of the data you provide will be stored securely. We will not store data and remove identifiers such as an IP address after we have checked for any duplicates.

What if you want to stop before your part in the study is complete? You can withdraw from this study at any time, without penalty and skip any question for any reason. The investigators also have right to stop your participation if you have an unexpected reaction, have failed to follow instructions, etc.

Will you receive anything for being in this study? Will it cost anything? You will receive no monet reward for participating in this study. There are no costs associated with being in the study.

What if you have questions about this study? You have the right to ask, and have answered, any questions you may have about this research. Contact the principal investigators with any questions, complaints, or concerns you may have. They can be reached at 919-962-4775.

What if you have questions about your rights as a research participant? All research on human volunteers is reviewed by a committee that works to protect your rights and welfare. If you have questions or concerns, or if you would like to obtain information or offer input, please contact the Institutional Review Board at 919-966-3113 or by email to IRB_subjects@unc.edu
